

Environmental Education Grants Program

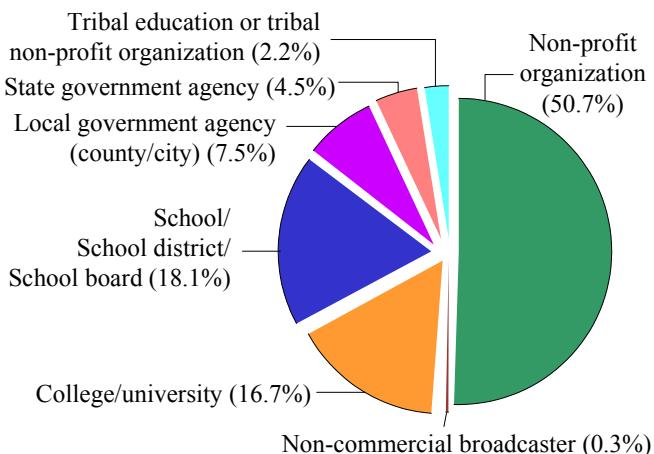

Grants Awarded 1992 - 2005

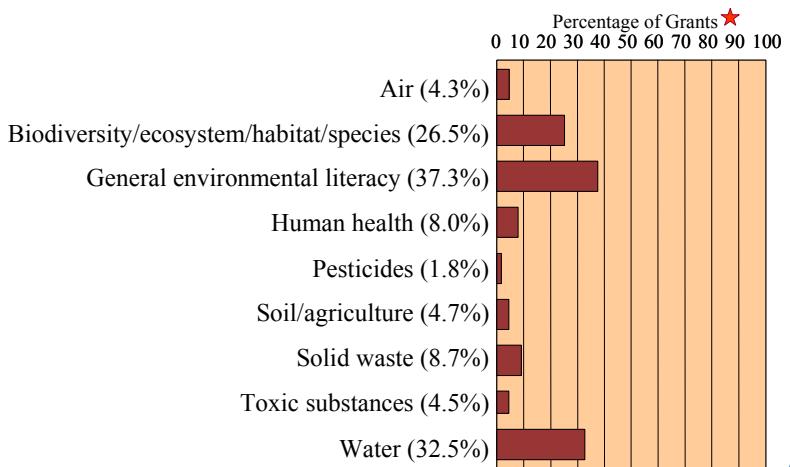

More than 3,000 grants have been awarded nationwide since 1992

Environmental Education Grants Awarded Since 1992

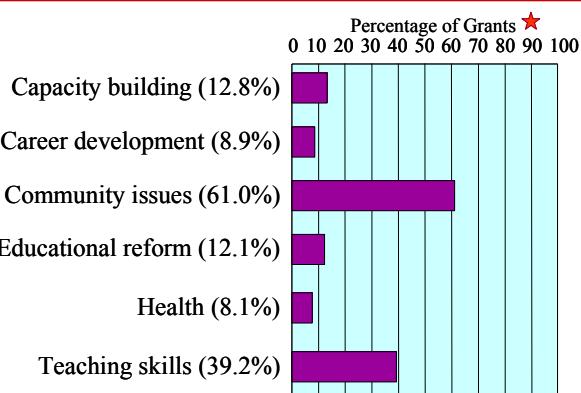

Types of Organizations

Environmental Issues

Educational Priorities

Capacity building – Increasing the capacity to develop and deliver coordinated environmental education programs across a state or across multiple states

Career development – Educating students in formal or non-formal settings about environmental issues to encourage environmental careers

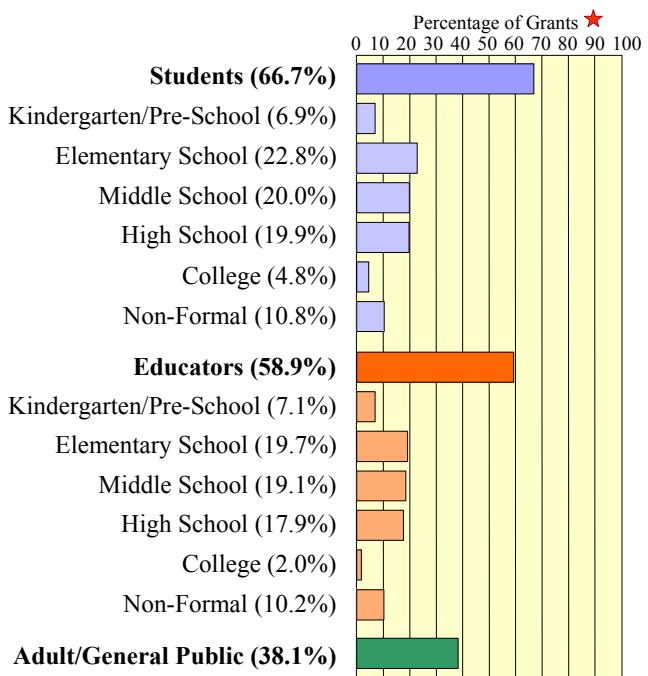

Community issues – Designing and implementing model projects to educate the public about environmental issues and/or health issues in their communities through community-based organizations or through print, film, broadcast, or other media

Educational reform – Using environmental education as a catalyst to advance state or local education reform goals

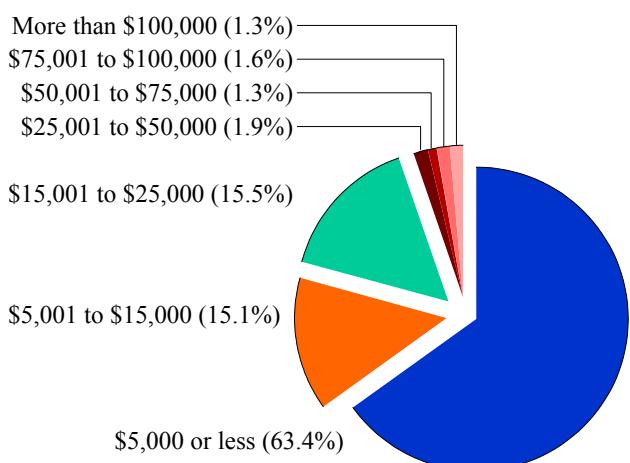

Health – Educating teachers, students, parents, community leaders, or the public about human-health threats from environmental pollution, especially as it affects children, and about how to minimize human exposure to preserve good health

Teaching skills – Educating teachers, faculty, or non-formal educators about environmental issues to improve their environmental education teaching skills, e.g., through workshops

Audiences

Grants Awarded by Size

The total of the percentages represented in the chart may exceed 100% because many grants reach multiple audiences and address more than one educational priority or environmental issue.

Environmental Education Grants Program

This grant program was established under the National Environmental Education Act. The purpose of the program is to provide seed money to help support environmental education projects that increase the public's awareness and knowledge about environmental issues, and provide them with the skills to make informed decisions and to take responsible actions to protect the environment.

Organizations eligible for these grants are: colleges and universities, tribal and local education agencies, state education and environmental agencies, nonprofit 501(c)(3) organizations, and non-commercial educational broadcasting entities. Grantees are located in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and various other U.S. territories. This booklet identifies grant recipients by the year in which the grants were awarded and indicates where they are located geographically by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) region and state.

Since 1992, Congress has appropriated almost $3 million annually for this grant program. EPA funds about 150 grants with that appropriation each year and to date has awarded more than 3,000 grants. Each grant listed also secured required matching funds from sources other than federal programs with a value of at least $1 for every $3 provided by EPA. EPA Headquarters awards grants larger than $50,000 and the regional offices award smaller grants. Each year, EPA Headquarters funds 10 to 12 grants that average about $80,000 each. The 10 regional offices each fund a total of about 15 grants per year. Congress directed EPA to focus on small grants to seed community projects; therefore, EPA regional offices make small grants their first funding priority. EPA typically receives about 1,000 proposals nationwide each year and the competition for the grants is intense. Most of EPA's regional offices fund approximately 30 percent of the applications received. At EPA Headquarters, funding limitations allow for funding of less than 10 percent of applications received. The applications are reviewed and scored by non-EPA external reviewers and EPA staff in a two-tiered evaluation process.

EPA annually issues a "Solicitation Notice," that outlines the application procedures and the educational priorities. Educational priorities have included projects that build state-wide capacity to deliver environmental education, advance state education reform goals, educate the public about health threats from pollution, improve teaching skills, encourage environmental careers, educate low-income and culturally-diverse audiences, and educate the public through community-based organizations or the media.

Examples of projects funded under this program include:

- ★ training teachers how to integrate environmental education topics into their existing curricula to address education reform objectives;
- ★ teaching high school students how to analyze water quality data to determine the impact of pollution on organisms and their habitat; and
- ★ teaching parents from low-income neighborhoods how to reduce children's exposure to environmental pollution, such as lead.
